

Mr. Jacques Shore
Partner
Gowlings Law, Canada

Mr. Jacques Shore is a partner in Gowlings Law. With extensive experience in both the private and public sectors, he practises in the fields of administrative law, federal regulatory affairs and negotiations focusing on trade and procurement issues, nuclear energy and environmental issues, national security matters, aviation and aerospace, cultural policy, as well as government relations and government advisory work.

He is an adviser to numerous Canadian and international companies and business interests on legal, government and public law issues, he has also acted as lead negotiator on many business and government-related initiatives. In addition, he has extensive experience dealing with and advising not-for-profit corporations and non-governmental organizations. He has worked actively on behalf of the federal government of Canada on a broad range of legal and public policy matters.

Prior to joining Gowlings, he was the first director of research of the security intelligence review committee, Parliament's watchdog body reviewing the Canadian Security Intelligence Service and a senior staff member of the Macdonald Royal Commission on the Economic Union and Development Prospects for Canada. .

In addition to his law practice, he is an active member of Gowlings' National External Management Committee and is on the Board of Governors of Carleton University.