

Mr. Randy Zadra
Director
Carleton International, Canada

Mr. Randy Zadra serves as director of Carleton International and is a visiting fellow at the MIT Media Lab. He has extensive experience in industry, academia, and government. He has worked in various senior management capacities at Teleglobe, and Industry Canada where he was part of the North American free trade agreement negotiating team. He was also Managing Director of the Institute for Connectivity – a $25M fund established by the Prime Minister of Canada to support projects in developing countries. He also co-led the development of the Legatum Center – a $50M initiative which promotes innovation and business models for emerging economies and developing countries.

He is on the board of two companies founded at the MIT Media Lab and has served as a judge in the MIT Business plan competition.

He has a Masters in Public Policy from Carleton University and has studied at the MIT Sloan School of Management.