

Mr. Shalendra Porwal
Managing Director and CEO
Battelle Science and Technology India Pvt. Ltd., India

Mr. Shalendra Porwal conceptualized and established Battelle India in 2008 and now serves as its Managing Director and CEO. He has over 30 years of experience in virtually all aspects of contract R&D including new product development, project management, business development, marketing, and technology licensing. He also led several major technical projects with government as well as industrial clients in the US and abroad. He also serves on the Board of a non-profit organization.

As an independent consultant and entrepreneur from 1997 to 2001, he worked with inventors to protect, market, and commercialize their intellectual property. During this period he also started several new businesses related to medical software, technology consulting, retail marketing on the Internet, plastic products manufacturing, and a preschool-daycare.

He has authored over twenty major reports and publications and made numerous presentations to large technical audiences and senior management of Fortune 500 companies.

In addition to a chemical engineering degree from IIT Kharagpur, he also has MBA and MS degrees from Miami University.